Nestled in the West Lothian, Broxburn is a picturesque town that offers residents the perfect blend of rural tranquillity and urban convenience. With its rich history, excellent local schools, and a variety of shops and amenities, Broxburn is an ideal place to call home. Families in Broxburn have access to a range of excellent educational options for their children. The town is home to several primary schools, including Broxburn Primary School and St. Nicholas Primary School, which provide a solid foundation for young learners. For older students, Broxburn Academy offers a comprehensive secondary education.

One of Broxburn's standout features is its convenient proximity to Scotland's vibrant capital, Edinburgh. The town is strategically located just west of Edinburgh, making it an ideal choice for commuters. A short drive of approximately 20–25 minutes or a convenient train ride from nearby Uphall Station brings you right into the heart of Edinburgh, making it easy to access the city's employment opportunities, cultural attractions, and entertainment venues. Broxburn benefits from an efficient public transport network that connects residents to nearby towns and cities. Additionally, the town is well-served by a network of bus routes that offer further flexibility in transportation.
